Agenda Item: 18.

Integration Joint Board

Date of Meeting: 10 February 2021.

Subject: Complaints Handling Procedure.

1. Summary

1.1. The Scottish Public Services Ombudsman requires the Integration Joint Board to adopt the new Model Public Sector Complaints Handling Procedure, including any changes that it wishes to make, by 1 April 2021. This report summarises the changes made by the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman to the existing Model Procedure and recommends that the Board adopt the new Model Procedure.

2. Purpose

2.1. To adopt a new Complaints Handling Procedure.

3. Recommendations

The Integration Joint Board is invited to note:

3.1. That the Board's existing Complaints Handling Procedure is based on a Model Complaints Handling Procedure published by the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman.

3.2. That, in 2018/19, the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman conducted a review of the Model Complaints Handling Procedure to establish its effectiveness and usability.

3.3. That, following the review, the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman published a revised Model Complaints Handling Procedure on 31 January 2020.

3.4. That the revised Model Complaints Handling Procedure includes a "Customer-facing Guide", which is a separate, but integral, part of the Model Complaints Handling Procedure.

3.5. That the revised version of the Model Complaints Procedure incorporates a number of updates to reflect feedback from stakeholders and to address issues identified in casework.

3.6. That Part 4 of the revised Model Complaints Procedure has been amended to reflect the Board's existing governance arrangements and roles and responsibilities in relation to the handling of complaints.

3.7. That the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman requires Integration Joint Boards to adopt the revised Model Complaints Handling Procedure, including any changes that they wish to make, by 1 April 2021.

It is recommended:

3.8. That the revised Model Complaints Handling Procedure, attached as Appendices 1 and 2 to this report, incorporating the amendments referred to in paragraph 3.6 above, be approved.

4. Background

4.1. The Integration Joint Board's existing Complaints Handling Procedure is based on a Model Complaints Handling Procedure published by the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman.

4.2. In 2018/19 the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman undertook a review of the Model Complaints Handling Procedure to establish its effectiveness and usability.

4.3. Following the review, the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman published a revised Model Complaints Handling Procedure on 31 January 2020.

4.4. The revised version includes a number of updates to reflect feedback from stakeholders and to address issues that had been identified in casework.

5. New Model Complaints Handling Procedure

5.1. The new Model Complaints Handling Procedure comprises five Parts as set out below:

- Part 1: Introduction and Overview – this outlines the structure of the Complaints Handling Procedure and provides guidance on expected staff behaviours and in relation to confidentiality and data protection.
- Part 2: When to use the Procedure – this provides guidance on identifying what is and what is not a complaint, advises on the handling of complex or unusual complaint circumstances, on the interaction of complaints and other processes, and what to do if the Model Complaints Handling Procedure does not apply.
- Part 3: The complaints handling process – this contains guidance on handling a 'complaint through stages 1 and 2 and dealing with post-closure contact.
- Part 4: Governance of the procedure – this sets out staff roles and responsibilities and provides guidance on recording, reporting, publicising and learning from complaints.
- Customer-facing guide – this contains information for customers on how the Board handles complaints.

5.2. Several key elements of the new Model Complaints Handling Procedure remain unchanged from the existing Procedure, including:

- The definition of what is a complaint.
- A two-stage process where complaints are resolved as close to the frontline as possible.
- Requirement for frontline resolution of complaints to be achieved within five working days.
- An investigation stage of 20 working days, which provides the Board's final decision.
- Requirement for all complaints to be recorded.
- Active learning from complaints through reporting and publicising complaints information.

5.3. Notwithstanding the above, there are a number of changes made by the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman to the existing Model Complaints Handling Procedure. These include the following:

- Overhaul of the structure of the Complaints Handling Procedure including the arrangement of the Procedure into five Parts, including a Customer-facing Guide.
- Inclusion of guidance on matters including:
 - Expected staff behaviours.
 - Supporting customers.
 - Complaints by third parties.
 - Serious, high-risk, or high-profile complaints.
 - Complaints about contracted or commissioned services or arms-length external organisations.
 - Interaction between complaints and disciplinary or whistleblowing processes.
- Addition of enhanced flowcharts to illustrate the complaints handling process.
- Provision of enhanced detailed guidance in relation to Stage 2 of the Procedure (Investigation).
- Provision of reference to good practice in relation to using alternative resolution approaches.
- Provision of guidance in relation to improving access to complaints for vulnerable groups.

5.4. In addition, the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman has confirmed that it recognises the importance of providing scope to adapt the Model Complaints Handling Procedure to reflect each integration joint board's particular organisational structure and operational processes. In particular, Part 4 of the Procedure includes sections where there is an expectation that boards will adapt the text based on their own organisational needs, such as the roles and responsibilities in relation to signing-off or recording complaints. Accordingly, Part 4 has been adapted in order to reflect the Board's existing arrangements in relation to governance and roles and responsibilities in relation to the handling of complaints.

6. Adoption of New Complaints Handling Procedure

6.1. The Scottish Public Services Ombudsman requires all integration joint boards in Scotland to adopt the new Model Complaints Handling Procedure, together with the Customer-facing Guide, including any changes that the Board wishes to make, no later than April 2021.

7. Contribution to quality

Please indicate which of the Orkney Community Plan 2019 to 2022 visions are supported in this report adding Yes or No to the relevant area(s):

Resilience: To support and promote our strong communities.	Yes.

Part 1: Introduction and Overview

Foreword

Orkney's Integration Joint Board ('the Board') Handling Procedure reflects the Board's commitment to valuing complaints. It seeks to resolve customer dissatisfaction as close as possible to the point of service delivery and to conduct thorough, impartial and fair investigations of customer complaints so that, where appropriate, we can make evidence-based decisions on the facts of the case.

The procedure was first developed by the SPSO in consultation with relevant stakeholders. The Model Complaints Handling Procedures (MCHPs) were revised in 2019 by the SPSO in consultation with all sectors. This new edition includes a core text, which is consistent across all public services in Scotland, with some additional text and examples specific to this sector. As far as is possible we have produced a standard approach to handling complaints across Scotland's public services, which complies with the SPSO's guidance on a MCHP. This procedure aims to help us 'get it right first time'. We want quicker, simpler and more streamlined complaints handling with local, early responses by capable, well-trained staff.

All staff across the Board must cover this procedure as part of their induction and must be given refresher training as required, to ensure they are confident in identifying complaints, empowered to resolve simple complaints on the spot, and familiar with how to apply this procedure (including recording complaints).

Complaints give us valuable information we can use to improve service provision and customer satisfaction. Our Complaints Handling Procedure will enable us to address a customer's dissatisfaction and may help us prevent the same problem from happening again. For our staff, complaints provide a first-hand account of the customers' views and experience, and can highlight problems we may otherwise miss. Handled well, complaints can give our customers a form of redress when things go wrong, and can also help us continuously improve our services.

Handling complaints early creates better customer relations. Handling complaints close to the point of service delivery means we can deal with them locally and quickly, so they are less likely to escalate to the next stage of the procedure. Complaints that we do not handle swiftly can greatly add to our workload and are more costly to administer.

The Complaints Handling Procedure will help us do our job better, improve relationships with our customers and enhance public perception of the Board. It will help us keep the user at the heart of the process, while enabling us to better understand how to improve our services by learning from complaints.

Structure of the Complaints Handling Procedure

1. This Complaints Handling Procedure (CHP) explains to staff how to handle complaints. The CHP consists of:

- Overview and structure (part 1) – this section.

- When to use the procedure (part 2) – guidance on identifying what is and what is not a complaint, handling complex or unusual complaint circumstances, the interaction of complaints and other processes, and what to do if the CHP does not apply.
- The complaints handling process (part 3) – guidance on handling a complaint through stages 1 and 2, and dealing with post-closure contact.
- Governance of the procedure (part 4) – staff roles and responsibilities and guidance on recording, reporting, publicising and learning from complaints.
- The customer-facing CHP (separate document) – information for customers on how we handle complaints.

2. When using the CHP, please also refer to the 'SPSO Statement of Complaints Handling Principles' and good practice guidance on complaints handling from the SPSO. www.spsso.org.uk.

Overview of the CHP

3. Anyone can make a complaint, either verbally or in writing, including face-to-face, by phone, letter or email.

4. We will try to resolve complaints to the satisfaction of the customer wherever this is possible. Where this isn't possible, we will give the customer a clear response to each of their points of complaint. We will always try to respond as quickly as we can (and on the spot where possible).

5. Our complaints procedure has two stages. We expect the majority of complaints will be handled at stage 1. If the customer remains dissatisfied after stage 1, they can request that we look at it again, at stage 2. If the complaint is complex enough to require an investigation, we will put the complaint into stage 2 straight away and skip stage 1.

Stage 1: Frontline response	Stage 2: Investigation	Independent external review (SPSO or other)
For issues that are straightforward and simple, requiring little or no investigation. 'On-the-spot' apology, explanation, or other action to put the matter right. Complaint resolved or a response provided in five working days or less (unless there are exceptional circumstances). Complaints addressed by any member of staff, or alternatively referred to the appropriate point for frontline response. Response normally face-to-face or by telephone (though sometimes we will need to put the decision in writing). We will tell the customer how to escalate their complaint to stage 2.	Where the customer is not satisfied with the frontline response, or refuses to engage at the frontline, or where the complaint is complex, serious or 'high-risk'. Complaint acknowledged within three working days. We will contact the customer to clarify the points of complaint and outcome sought (where these are already clear, we will confirm them in the acknowledgement). Complaint resolved or a definitive response provided within 20 working days following a thorough investigation of the points raised.	Where the customer is not satisfied with the stage 2 response from the service provider. The SPSO will assess whether there is evidence of service failure or maladministration not identified by the service provider. In relation to social work decisions the SPSO can also look at professional decisions. Some complaints may also have an alternative route for independent external review.

6. For detailed guidance on the process, see Part 3: The complaints handling process.

Expected behaviours

7. We expect all staff to behave in a professional manner and treat customers with courtesy, respect and dignity. We also ask customers bringing a complaint to treat our staff with respect. We ask customers to engage actively with the complaint handling process by:

- Telling us their key issues of concern and organising any supporting information they want to give us (we understand that some people will require support to do this).
- Working with us to agree the key points of complaint when an investigation is required.
- Responding to reasonable requests for information.

8. Where these standards are not met, we follow Orkney Island Council's Policy on Unacceptable Actions and Challenging Behaviour by Service Users and Complainants.

9. We recognise that people may act out of character in times of trouble or distress. Sometimes a health condition or a disability can affect how a person expresses themselves. The circumstances leading to a complaint may also result in the customer acting in an unacceptable way.

10. Customers who have a history of challenging or inappropriate actions, or have difficulty expressing themselves, may still have a legitimate grievance, and we will treat all complaints seriously. However, we also recognise that the actions of some customers may result in unreasonable demands on time and resources or unacceptable behaviour towards our staff. We will, therefore, apply our policies and procedures to protect staff from unacceptable actions such as unreasonable persistence, threats or offensive behaviour from customers. Where we decide to restrict access to a customer under the terms of our policy, we have a procedure in place to communicate that decision, notify the customer of their right of appeal, and review any decision to restrict contact with us.

11. If we decide to restrict a customer's contact, we will be careful to follow the process set out in our policy and to minimise any restrictions on the customer's access to the complaints process. We will normally continue investigating a complaint even where contact restrictions are in place (for example, limiting communication to letter or to a named staff member). In some cases, it may be possible to continue investigating the complaint without contact from the customer. Our policy allows us in limited circumstances to restrict access to the complaint process entirely. This would be as a last resort, should be as limited as possible (for a limited time, or about a limited set of subjects) and requires manager approval. Where access to the complaint process is restricted, we must signpost the customer to the SPSO (see Part 3: Signposting to the SPSO).

12. The SPSO has guidance on promoting positive behaviour and managing unacceptable actions.

Maintaining confidentiality and data protection

13. Confidentiality is important in complaints handling. This includes maintaining the customer's confidentiality and confidentiality in relation to information about staff members, contractors or any third parties involved in the complaint.

14. This should not prevent us from being open and transparent, as far as possible, in how we handle complaints. This includes sharing as much information with the complainant (and, where appropriate, any affected staff members) as we can. When sharing information, we should be clear about why the information is being shared and our expectations on how the recipient will use the information.

15. We must always bear in mind legal requirements, for example data protection legislation, as well as internal policies on confidentiality and the use of customer information.

Part 2: When to use this Procedure.

What is a complaint?

1. The Board's definition of a complaint is: 'an expression of dissatisfaction by one or more members of the public about the Board's action or lack of action, or about the standard of service provided by or on behalf of the Board.'

2. For clarity, where an employee also receives a service from the Board as a member of the public, they may complain about that service.

3. A complaint may relate to the following, but is not restricted to this list:

- Failure or refusal to provide a service.
- Inadequate quality or standard of service, or an unreasonable delay in providing a service.
- Dissatisfaction with one of our policies or its impact on the individual.
- Failure to properly apply law, procedure or guidance when delivering services.
- Failure to follow the appropriate administrative process.
- Conduct, treatment by or attitude of a member of staff or contractor (except where there are arrangements in place for the contractor to handle the complaint themselves: see Complaints about contracted services).
- Disagreement with a decision, (except where there is a statutory procedure for challenging that decision, or an established appeals process followed throughout the sector).

4. Appendix 1 provides a range of examples of complaints we may receive, and how these may be handled.

5. A complaint is not:

- A routine first-time request for a service (see Complaints and service requests).
- A request for compensation only (see Complaints and compensation claims).
- Issues that are in court or have already been heard by a court or a tribunal (see Complaints and legal action).
- Disagreement with a decision where there is a statutory procedure for challenging that decision (such as for freedom of information and subject access requests), or an established appeals process followed throughout the sector.
- A request for information under the Data Protection or Freedom of Information (Scotland) Acts.
- A grievance by a staff member or a grievance relating to employment or staff recruitment.
- A concern raised internally by a member of staff (which was not about a service they received, such as a whistleblowing concern).
- A concern about a child or an adult's safety.
- An attempt to reopen a previously concluded complaint or to have a complaint reconsidered where we have already given our final decision.

- Abuse or unsubstantiated allegations about our organisation or staff where such actions would be covered by Orkney Islands Council's Policy on Unacceptable Actions and Challenging Behaviour by Service Users and Complainants.
- A concern about the actions or service of a different organisation, where we have no involvement in the issue (except where the other organisation is delivering services on our behalf: see Complaints about contracted services).

6. Appendix 2 gives more examples of 'what is not a complaint' and how to direct customers appropriately.

7. We will not treat these issues as complaints, and will instead direct customers to use the appropriate procedures. Some situations can involve a combination of issues, where some are complaints and others are not, and each situation should be assessed on a case-by-case basis.

8. If a matter is not a complaint, or not suitable to be handled under the CHP, we will explain this to the customer, and tell them what (if any) action we will take, and why. See What if the CHP does not apply.

Who can make a complaint?

9. Anyone who receives, requests, or is affected by our services can make a complaint. In this procedure these people are termed 'customers', regardless of whether they are or were using a service.

10. We also accept complaints from the representative of a person who is dissatisfied with our service. See Complaints by (or about) a third party.

Supporting the customer

11. All members of the community have the right to equal access to our complaints procedure. It is important to recognise the barriers that some customers may face complaining. These may be physical, sensory, communication or language barriers, but can also include their anxieties and concerns. Customers may need support to overcome these barriers.

12. We have legal duties to make our complaints service accessible under equalities and mental health legislation. For example:

- The Equality Act 2010 – this gives people with a protected characteristic the right to reasonable adjustments to access our services (such as large print or BSL translations of information); and
- The Mental Health (Care and Treatment) (Scotland) Act 2003 – this gives anyone with a 'mental disorder' (including mental health issues, learning difficulties, dementia and autism) a right to access independent advocacy. This must be delivered by independent organisations that only provide advocacy. They help people to know and understand their rights, make informed decisions and have a voice.

13. Examples of how we will meet our legal duties include:

- Proactively checking whether members of the public who contact us require additional support to access our services.
- Providing interpretation and / or translation services for British Sign Language users.
- Helping customers access independent advocacy (the Scottish Independent Advocacy Alliance website has information about local advocacy organisations throughout Scotland).

14. In addition to our legal duties, we will seek to ensure that we support vulnerable groups in accessing our complaints procedure. There may also be users (or a specific group of users) who are subject to additional barriers to raising a complaint which goes beyond the support required for accessing day to day services. For example, neutral points of contact / advocacy where the relationship between frontline staff and users is significant and ongoing. Organisations should consider consulting with relevant third sector organisations in completing this section. An example of the vulnerable groups identified by the SPSO is available online. An example of appropriate actions may include:

- Helping vulnerable customers identify when they might wish to make a complaint (for example, by training frontline staff who provide services to vulnerable groups).
- Helping customers access independent support or advocacy to help them understand their rights and communicate their complaints (for example, through the Scottish Independent Advocacy Alliance or Citizen's Advice Scotland).
- Providing a neutral point of contact for complaints (where the relationship between customers and frontline staff is significant and ongoing).

15. These lists are not exhaustive, and we must always take into account our commitment and responsibilities to equality and accessibility.

How complaints may be made

16. Complaints may be made verbally or in writing, including face-to-face, by phone, letter or email.

17. Where a complaint is made verbally, we will make a record of the key points of complaint raised.

18. Complaint issues may also be raised on digital platforms (including social media).

19. Where a complaint issue is raised via a digital channel managed and controlled by the Board (for example an official twitter address or Facebook page), we will explain that we do not take complaints on social media, but we will tell the person how they can complain.

20. Where a complaint issue is raised via a digital channel managed and controlled by the Board (for example an official Twitter address or Facebook page):

- We will normally respond by explaining that we do not normally take complaints made on social media and telling the person how they can complain.

- In exceptional circumstances, we may respond to very simple complaints on social media. This will normally only be appropriate where an issue is likely to affect a large number of people, and we can provide a very simple response (for example, an apology for a cancelled bus service or late cancellation of a class).

21. We may also become aware that an issue has been raised via a digital channel not controlled or managed by us (for example a YouTube video or post on a private Facebook group). In such cases we may respond, where we consider it appropriate, by telling the person how they can complain.

22. We must always be mindful of our data protection obligations when responding to issues online or in a public forum. See Part 1: Maintaining confidentiality and data protection.

Time limit for making complaints

23. The customer must raise their complaint within six months of when they first knew of the problem, unless there are special circumstances for considering complaints beyond this time (for example, where a person was not able to complain due to serious illness or recent bereavement).

24. Where a customer has received a stage 1 response, and wishes to escalate to stage 2, unless there are special circumstances they must request this either:

- Within six months of when they first knew of the problem.
- Within two months of receiving their stage 1 response (if this is later).

25. We will apply these time limits with discretion, taking into account the seriousness of the issue, the availability of relevant records and staff involved, how long ago the events occurred, and the likelihood that an investigation will lead to a practical benefit for the customer or useful learning for the organisation.

26. We will also take account of the time limit within which a member of the public can ask the SPSO to consider complaints (normally one year). The SPSO have discretion to waive this time limit in special circumstances (and may consider doing so in cases where we have waived our own time limit).

Particular circumstances

Complaints by (or about) a third party

27. Sometimes a customer may be unable or reluctant to make a complaint on their own. We will accept complaints from third parties, which may include relatives, friends, advocates and advisers. Where a complaint is made on behalf of a customer, we must ensure that the customer has authorised the person to act on their behalf. It is good practice to ensure the customer understands their personal information will be shared as part of the complaints handling process (particularly where this includes sensitive personal information). This can include complaints brought by parents on behalf of their child, if the child is considered to have capacity to make decisions for themselves.

28. The provision of a signed mandate from the customer will normally be sufficient for us to investigate a complaint. If we consider it is appropriate, we can take verbal consent direct from the customer to deal with a third party and would normally follow up in writing to confirm this.

29. In certain circumstances, a person may raise a complaint involving another person's personal data, without receiving consent. The complaint should still be investigated where possible, but the investigation and response may be limited by considerations of confidentiality. The person who submitted the complaint should be made aware of these limitations and the effect this will have on the scope of the response.

30. See also Part 1: Maintaining confidentiality and data protection.

Serious, high-risk or high-profile complaints

31. We will take particular care to identify complaints that might be considered serious, high-risk or high-profile, as these may require particular action or raise critical issues that need senior management's direct input. Serious, high-risk or high-profile complaints should normally be handled immediately at stage 2 (see Part 3: Stage 2: Investigation).

32. We define potential high-risk or high-profile complaints as those that may:

- Involve a death or terminal illness.
- Involve serious service failure, for example major delays in providing, or repeated failures to provide, a service.
- Generate significant and ongoing press interest.
- Pose a serious risk to an organisation's operations.
- Present issues of a highly sensitive nature, for example concerning:
 - A particularly vulnerable person.
 - Child protection.

Anonymous complaints

33. We value all complaints, including anonymous complaints, and will take action to consider them further wherever this is appropriate. Generally, we will consider anonymous complaints if there is enough information in the complaint to enable us to make further enquiries. Any decision not to pursue an anonymous complaint must be authorised by an appropriate manager.

34. If we pursue an anonymous complaint further, we will record it as an anonymous complaint together with any learning from the complaint and action taken.

35. If an anonymous complainant makes serious allegations, these should be dealt with in a timely manner under relevant procedures. This may not be the complaints procedure and could instead be relevant child protection, adult protection or disciplinary procedures.

What if the customer does not want to complain?

36. If a customer has expressed dissatisfaction in line with our definition of a complaint but does not want to complain, we will explain that complaints offer us the opportunity to improve services where things have gone wrong. We will encourage the customer to submit their complaint and allow us to handle it through the CHP. This will ensure that the customer is updated on the action taken and gets a response to their complaint.

37. If the customer insists they do not wish to complain, we are not required to progress the complaint under this procedure. However, we should record the complaint as an anonymous complaint (including minimal information about the complaint, without any identifying information) to enable us to track trends and themes in complaints. Where the complaint is serious, or there is evidence of a problem with our services, we should also look into the matter to remedy this (and record any outcome).

38. Please refer to the example in Appendix 1 for further guidance.

Complaints involving more than one area or organisation

39. If a complaint relates to the actions of two or more areas within our organisation, we will tell the customer who will take the lead in dealing with the complaint, and explain that they will get only one response covering all issues raised.

40. If a customer complains to us about the service of another organisation or public service provider, but we have no involvement in the issue, the customer should be advised to contact the appropriate organisation directly.

41. If a complaint relates to our service and the service of another organisation or public service provider, and we have a direct interest in the issue, we will handle the complaint about the Board through the CHP. If we need to contact an outside body about the complaint, we will be mindful of data protection. See Part 1: Maintaining confidentiality and data protection.

Complaints about contracted services

42. Where we use a contractor to deliver a service on our behalf we recognise that we remain responsible and accountable for ensuring that the services provided meet the Board's standard (including in relation to complaints). We will either do so by:

- Ensuring the contractor complies with this procedure; or
- Ensuring the contractor has their own procedure in place, which fully meets the standards in this procedure. At the end of the investigation stage of any such complaints the contractor must ensure that the customer is signposted to the SPSO.

43. We will confirm that service users are clearly informed of the process and understand how to complain. We will also ensure that there is appropriate provision for information sharing and governance oversight where required.

44. The Board has discretion to investigate complaints about organisations contracted to deliver services on its behalf even where the procedure has normally been delegated.

Complaints about senior staff

45. Complaints about senior staff can be difficult to handle, as there may be a conflict of interest for the staff investigating the complaint. When serious complaints are raised against senior staff, it is particularly important that the investigation is conducted by an individual who is independent of the situation. We must ensure we have strong governance arrangements in place that set out clear procedures for handling such complaints.

Complaints and other processes

46. Complaints can sometimes be confused (or overlap) with other processes, such as disciplinary or whistleblowing processes. Specific examples and guidance on how to handle these are below.

Complaints and service requests

47. If a customer asks the Board to do something (for example, provide a service or deal with a problem), and this is the first time the customer has contacted us, this would normally be a routine service request and not a complaint.

48. Service requests can lead to complaints, if the request is not handled promptly or the customer is then dissatisfied with how we provide the service.

Complaints and disciplinary or whistleblowing processes

49. If the issues raised in a complaint overlap with issues raised under a disciplinary or whistleblowing process, we still need to respond to the complaint.

50. Our response must be careful not to share confidential information (such as anything about the whistleblowing or disciplinary procedures, or outcomes for individual staff members). It should focus on whether the Board failed to meet our [service standards, where relevant, or expected standards] and what we have done to improve things, in general terms.

51. Staff investigating such complaints will need to take extra care to ensure that:

- We comply with all requirements of the CHP in relation to the complaint (as well as meeting the requirements of the other processes).
- All complaint issues are addressed (sometimes issues can get missed if they are not also relevant to the overlapping process).
- We keep records of the investigation that can be made available to the SPSO if required. This can be problematic when the other process is confidential, because SPSO will normally require documentation of any correspondence and interviews to show how conclusions were reached. We will need to bear this in mind when planning any elements of the investigation that might overlap (for example, if staff are interviewed for the purposes of both the complaint and a disciplinary procedure, they should not be assured that any evidence given will be confidential, as it may be made available to the SPSO).

52. The SPSO's report complaints work for everyone has more information on supporting staff who are the subject of complaints.

Complaints and compensation claims

53. Where a customer is seeking financial compensation only, this is not a complaint. However, in some cases the customer may want to complain about the matter leading to their financial claim, and they may seek additional outcomes, such as an apology or an explanation. Where appropriate, we may consider that matter as a complaint, but deal with the financial claim separately. It may be appropriate to extend the timeframes for responding to the complaint, to consider the financial claim first.

Complaints and legal action

54. Where a customer says that legal action is being actively pursued, this is not a complaint.

55. Where a customer indicates that they are thinking about legal action, but have not yet commenced this, they should be informed that if they take such action, they should notify the complaints handler and that the complaints process, in relation to the matters that will be considered through the legal process, will be closed. Any outstanding complaints must still be addressed through the CHP.

56. If an issue has been, or is being, considered by a court, we must not consider the same issue under the CHP.

What to do if the CHP does not apply

57. If the issue does not meet the definition of a complaint or if it is not appropriate to handle it under this procedure (for example, due to time limits), we will explain to the customer why we have made this decision. We will also tell them what action (if any) we will take (for example, if another procedure applies), and advise them of their right to contact the SPSO if they disagree with our decision not to respond to the issue as a complaint.

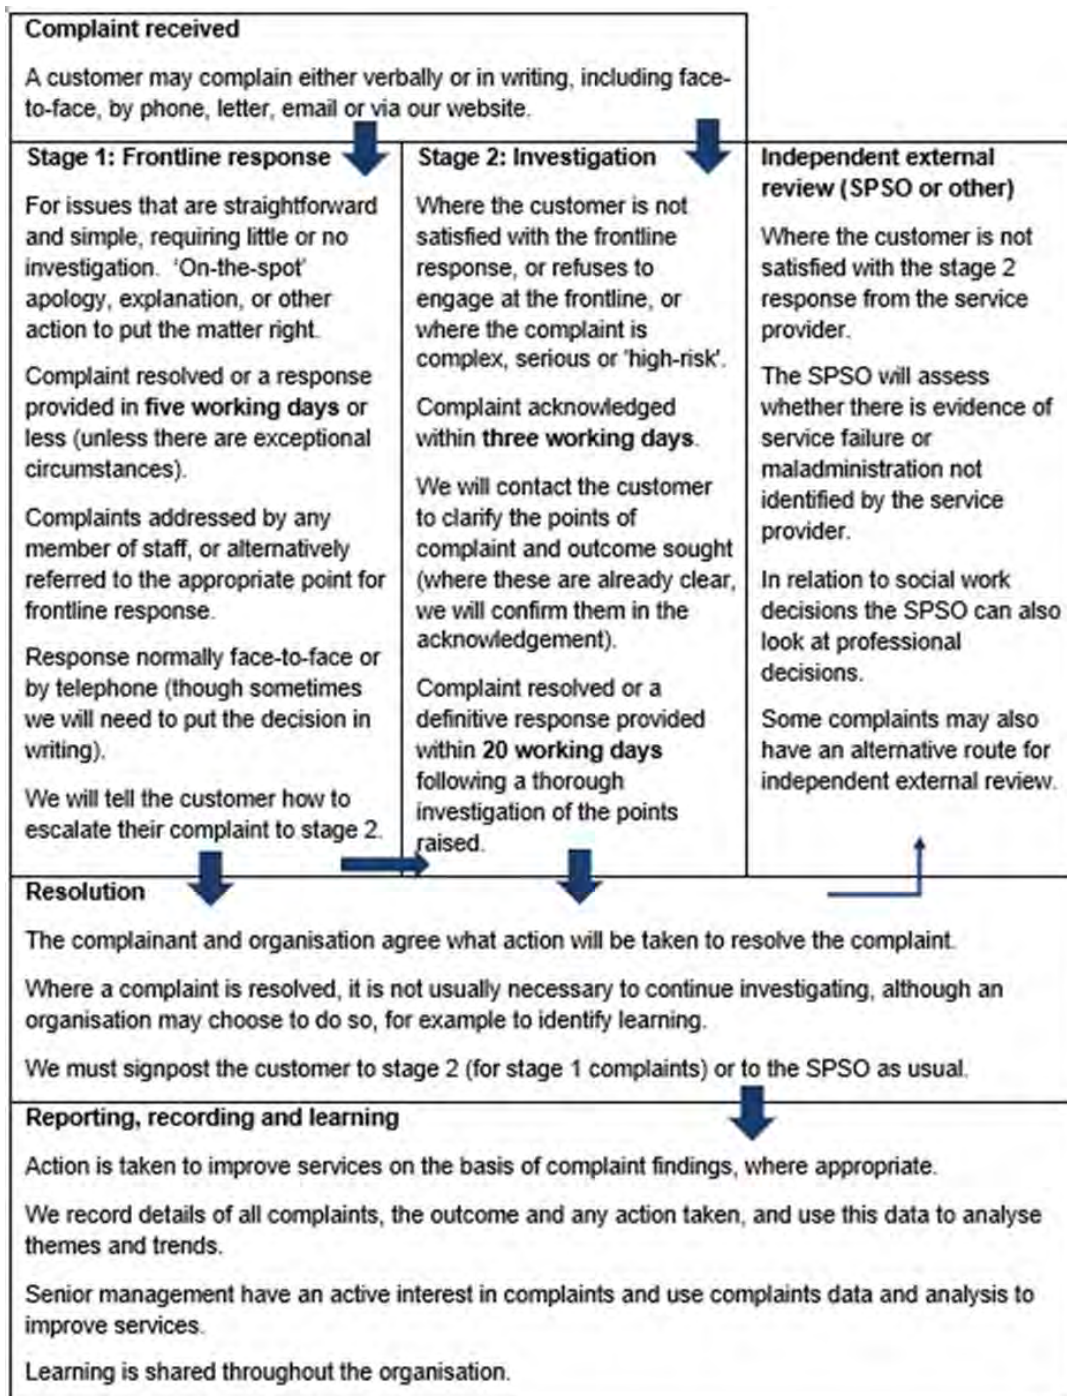

58. Where a customer continues to contact us about the same issue, we will explain that we have already given them our final response on the matter and signpost them to the SPSO. We may also consider whether we need to take action under our unacceptable actions policy (or equivalent).

59. The SPSO has issued a template letter for explaining when the CHP does not apply.

Part 3: The Complaints Handling Process

The complaints handling process

1. Our Complaints Handling Procedure (CHP) aims to provide a quick, simple and streamlined process for responding to complaints early and locally by capable, well-trained staff. Where possible, we will resolve the complaint to the customer's satisfaction. Where this is not possible, we will give the customer a clear and reasoned response to their complaint.

Resolving the complaint

2. A complaint is resolved when both the Board and the customer agree what action (if any) will be taken to provide full and final resolution for the customer, without making a decision about whether the complaint is upheld or not upheld.

3. We will try to resolve complaints wherever possible, although we accept this will not be possible in all cases.

4. A complaint may be resolved at any point in the complaint handling process, including during the investigation stage. It is particularly important to try to resolve complaints where there is an ongoing relationship with the customer or where the complaint relates to an ongoing issue that may give rise to future complaints if the matter is not fully resolved.

5. It may be helpful to use alternative complaint resolution approaches when trying to resolve a complaint. See Alternative complaint resolution approaches.

6. Where a complaint is resolved, we do not normally need to continue looking into it or provide a response on all points of complaint. There must be a clear record of how the complaint was resolved, what action was agreed, and the customer's agreement to this as a final outcome. In some cases it may still be appropriate to continue looking into the issue, for example where there is evidence of a wider problem or potential for useful learning. We will use our professional judgment in deciding whether it is appropriate to continue looking into a complaint that is resolved.

7. In all cases, we must record the complaint outcome (resolved) and any action taken, and signpost the customer to stage 2 (for stage 1 complaints) or to the SPSO as usual (see Signposting to the SPSO).

8. If the customer and the Board are not able to agree a resolution, we must follow this CHP to provide a clear and reasoned response to each of the issues raised.

What to do when you receive a complaint

9. Members of staff receiving a complaint should consider four key questions. This will help them to either respond to the complaint quickly (at stage 1) or determine whether the complaint is more suitable for stage 2:

What exactly is the customer's complaint (or complaints)?

10. It is important to be clear about exactly what the customer is complaining about. We may need to ask the customer for more information and probe further to get a full understanding.

11. We will need to decide whether the issue can be defined as a complaint and whether there are circumstances that may limit our ability to respond to the complaint (such as the time limit for making complaints, confidentiality, anonymity or the need for consent). We should also consider whether the complaint is serious, high-risk or high-profile.

12. If the matter is not suitable for handling as a complaint, we will explain this to the customer (and signpost them to SPSO). There is detailed guidance on this step in Part 2: When to use this procedure.

13. In most cases, this step will be straightforward. If it is not, the complaint may need to be handled immediately at stage 2 (see Stage 2: Investigation).

What does the customer want to achieve by complaining?

14. At the outset, we will clarify the outcome the customer wants. Of course, the customer may not be clear about this, and we may need to probe further to find out what they expect, and whether they can be satisfied.

Can I achieve this, or explain why not?

15. If a staff member handling a complaint can achieve the expected outcome, for example by providing an on-the-spot apology or explain why they cannot achieve it, they should do so.

16. The customer may expect more than we can provide. If so, we will tell them as soon as possible.

17. Complaints which can be resolved or responded to quickly should be managed at stage 1. See Stage 1: Frontline response.

If I cannot respond, who can help?

18. If the complaint is simple and straightforward, but the staff member receiving the complaint cannot deal with it because, for example, they are unfamiliar with the issues or area of service involved, they should pass the complaint to someone who can respond quickly.

19. If it is not a simple and straightforward complaint that can realistically be closed within five working days (or 10, if an extension is appropriate), it should be handled immediately at stage 2. If the customer refuses to engage at stage 1, insisting that they want their complaint investigated, it should be handled immediately at stage 2. See Stage 2: Investigation.

Stage 1: Frontline response

20. Frontline response aims to respond quickly (within five working days) to straightforward complaints that require little or no investigation.

21. Any member of staff may deal with complaints at this stage (including the staff member complained about, for example with an explanation or apology). The main principle is to respond to complaints at the earliest opportunity and as close to the point of service delivery as possible.

22. We may respond to the complaint by providing an on-the-spot apology where appropriate, or explaining why the issue occurred and, where possible, what will be done to stop this happening again. We may also explain that, as an organisation that values complaints, we may use the information given when we review service standards in the future. If we consider an apology is appropriate, we may wish to follow the SPSO guidance on apology.

23. Part 2, Appendix 1 gives examples of the types of complaint we may consider at this stage, with suggestions on how to handle them.

24. Complaints which are not suitable for frontline response should be identified early, and handled immediately at stage 2: investigation.

Notifying staff members involved

25. If the complaint is about the actions of another staff member, the complaint should be shared with them, where possible, before responding (although this should not prevent us responding to the complaint quickly, for example where it is clear that an apology is warranted).

Timelines

26. Frontline response must be completed within five working days, although in practice we would often expect to respond to the complaint much sooner. 'Day one' is always the date of receipt of the complaint (or the next working day if the complaint is received on a weekend or public holiday).

Extension to the timeline

27. In exceptional circumstances, a short extension of time may be necessary due to unforeseen circumstances (such as the availability of a key staff member). Extensions must be agreed with an appropriate manager. We will tell the customer about the reasons for the extension, and when they can expect a response. The maximum extension that can be granted is five working days (that is, no more than 10 working days in total from the date of receipt).

28. If a complaint will take more than five working days to look into, it should be handled at stage 2 immediately. The only exception to this is where the complaint is simple and could normally be handled within five working days, but it is not possible to begin immediately (for example, due to the absence of a key staff member). In such cases, the complaint may still be handled at stage 1 if it is clear that it can be handled within the extended timeframe of up to 10 working days.

29. If a complaint has not been closed within 10 working days, it should be escalated to stage 2 for a final response.

30. Appendix 1 provides further information on timelines.

Closing the complaint at the frontline response stage

31. If we convey the decision face-to-face or on the telephone, we are not required to write to the customer as well (although we may choose to). We must:

- Tell the customer the outcome of the complaint (whether it is resolved, upheld, partially upheld or not upheld).

- Explain the reasons for our decision (or the agreed action taken to resolve the complaint (see Resolving the complaint).
- Explain that the customer can escalate the complaint to stage 2 if they remain dissatisfied and how to do so (we should not signpost to the SPSO until the customer has completed stage 2).

32. We will keep a full and accurate record of the decision given to the customer. If we are not able to contact the customer by phone, or speak to them in person, we will provide a written response to the complaint where an email or postal address is provided, covering the points above.

33. If the complaint is about the actions of a particular staff member / s, we will share with them any part of the complaint response which relates to them, (unless there are compelling reasons not to).

34. The complaint should then be closed and the complaints system updated accordingly.

35. At the earliest opportunity after the closure of the complaint, the staff member handling the complaint should consider whether any learning has been identified. See Part 4: Learning from complaints.

Stage 2: Investigation

36. Not all complaints are suitable for frontline response and not all complaints will be satisfactorily addressed at that stage. Stage 2 is appropriate where:

The customer is dissatisfied with the frontline response or refuses to engage at the frontline stage, insisting they wish their complaint to be investigated. Unless exceptional circumstances apply, the customer must escalate the complaint within six months of when they first knew of the problem or within two months of the stage 1 response, whichever is later (see Part 2: Time limits for making a complaint)

The complaint is not simple and straightforward (for example where the customer has raised a number of issues, or where information from several sources is needed before we can establish what happened and / or what should have happened); or

The complaint relates to serious, high-risk or high-profile issues (see Part 2: Serious, high-risk or high-profile complaints).

37. An investigation aims to explore the complaint in more depth and establish all the relevant facts. The aim is to resolve the complaint where possible, or to give the customer a full, objective and proportionate response that represents our final position. Wherever possible, complaints should be investigated by someone not involved in the complaint (for example, a line manager or a manager from a different area).

38. Details of the complaint must be recorded on the complaints system. Where appropriate, this will be done as a continuation of frontline response. If the investigation stage follows a frontline response, the officer responsible for the investigation should have access to all case notes and associated information.

39. The beginning of stage 2 is a good time to consider whether complaint resolution approaches other than investigation may be helpful (see Alternative complaint resolution approaches).

Acknowledging the complaint

40. Complaints must be acknowledged within three working days of receipt at stage 2.

41. We must issue the acknowledgement in a format which is accessible to the customer, taking into account their preferred method of contact.

42. Where the points of complaint and expected outcomes are clear from the complaint, we must set these out in the acknowledgement and ask the customer to get in touch with us immediately if they disagree. See Agreeing the points of complaint and outcome sought.

43. Where the points of complaint and expected outcomes are not clear, we must tell the customer we will contact them to discuss this.

Agreeing the points of complaint and outcome sought

44. It is important to be clear from the start of stage 2 about the points of complaint to be investigated and what outcome the customer is seeking. We may also need to manage the customer's expectations about the scope of our investigation.

45. Where the points of complaint and outcome sought are clear, we can confirm our understanding of these with the customer when acknowledging the complaint (see Acknowledging the complaint).

46. Where the points of complaint and outcome sought are not clear, we must contact the customer to confirm these. We will normally need to speak to the customer (by phone or face-to-face) to do this effectively. In some cases it may be possible to clarify complaints in writing. The key point is that we need to be sure we and the customer have a shared understanding of the complaint. When contacting the customer we will be respectful of their stated preferred method of contact. We should keep a clear record of any discussion with the customer.

47. In all cases, we must have a clear shared understanding of:

- What are the points of complaint to be investigated?
 - While the complaint may appear to be clear, agreeing the points of complaint at the outset ensures there is a shared understanding and avoids the complaint changing or confusion arising at a later stage. The points of complaint should be specific enough to direct the investigation, but broad enough to include any multiple and specific points of concern about the same issue.
 - We will make every effort to agree the points of complaint with the customer (alternative complaint resolution approaches may be helpful at this stage). In very rare cases, it may not be possible to agree the points of complaint (for example, if the customer insists on an unreasonably large number of complaints being separately investigated, or on framing their complaint in an abusive way). We will manage any such cases in accordance with our [unacceptable actions policy, or equivalent], bearing in mind that we should continue to investigate the complaint (as we understand it) wherever possible.

- Is there anything we can't consider under the CHP?
 - We must explain if there are any points that are not suitable for handling under the CHP (see Part 2: What to do if the CHP does not apply).
- What outcome does the customer want to achieve by complaining?
 - Asking what outcome the customer is seeking helps direct the investigation and enables us to focus on resolving the complaint where possible
- Are the customer's expectations realistic and achievable?
 - It may be that the customer expects more than we can provide, or has unrealistic expectations about the scope of the investigation. If so, we should make this clear to the customer as soon as possible.

Notifying staff members involved

48. If the complaint is about the actions of a particular staff member / s, we will notify the staff member / s involved (including where the staff member is not named, but can be identified from the complaint). We will:

- Share the complaint information with the staff member/s (unless there are compelling reasons not to).
- Advise them how the complaint will be handled, how they will be kept updated and how we will share the complaint response with them
- Discuss their willingness to engage with alternative complaint resolution approaches (where applicable); and
- Signpost the staff member / s to a contact person who can provide support and information on what to expect from the complaint process (this must not be the person investigating or signing off the complaint response).

49. If it is likely that internal disciplinary processes may be involved, the requirements of that process should also be met. See also Part 2: Complaints and disciplinary or whistleblowing processes.

Investigating the complaint

50. It is important to plan the investigation before beginning. The staff member investigating the complaint should consider what information they have and what they need about:

- What happened? (this could include, for example, records of phone calls or meetings, work requests, recollections of staff members or internal emails)
- What should have happened? (this should include any relevant policies or procedures that apply); and
- Is there a difference between what happened and what should have happened, and is the Board responsible?

51. In some cases, information may not be readily available. We will balance the need for the information against the resources required to obtain it, taking into account the seriousness of the issue (for example, it may be appropriate to contact a former employee, if possible, where they hold key information about a serious complaint).

52. If we need to share information within or outwith the organisation, we will be mindful of our obligations under data protection legislation. See Part 1: Maintaining confidentiality and data protection.

53. The SPSO has resources for conducting investigations, including:

- Investigation plan template.
- Decision-making tool for complaint investigators.

Alternative complaint resolution approaches

54. Some complex complaints, or complaints where customers and other interested parties have become entrenched in their position, may require a different approach to resolving the matter. Where we think it is appropriate, we may use alternative complaint resolution approaches such as complaint resolution discussions, mediation or conciliation to try to resolve the matter and to reduce the risk of the complaint escalating further. If mediation is attempted, a suitably trained and qualified mediator should be used. Alternative complaint resolution approaches may help both parties to understand what has caused the complaint, and so are more likely to lead to mutually satisfactory solutions.

55. Alternative complaint resolution approaches may be used to resolve the complaint entirely, or to support one part of the process, such as understanding the complaint, or exploring the customer's desired outcome.

56. The SPSO has guidance on alternative complaint resolution approaches.

57. If the Board and the customer (and any staff members involved) agree to using alternative complaint resolution approaches, it is likely that an extension to the timeline will need to be agreed. This should not discourage the use of these approaches.

Meeting with the customer during the investigation

58. To effectively investigate the complaint, it may be necessary to arrange a meeting with the customer. Where a meeting takes place, we will always be mindful of the requirement to investigate complaints (including holding any meetings) within 20 working days wherever possible. Where there are difficulties arranging a meeting, this may provide grounds for extending the timeframe.

59. As a matter of good practice, a written record of the meeting should be completed and provided to the customer. Alternatively, and by agreement with the person making the complaint, we may provide a record of the meeting in another format. We will notify the person making the complaint of the timescale within which we expect to provide the record of the meeting.

Timelines

60. The following deadlines are appropriate to cases at the investigation stage (counting day one as the day of receipt, or the next working day if the complaint was received on a weekend or public holiday):

- Complaints must be acknowledged within three working days.
- A full response to the complaint should be provided as soon as possible but not later than 20 working days from the time the complaint was received for investigation.

Extension to the timeline

61. Not all investigations will be able to meet this deadline. For example, some complaints are so complex that they require careful consideration and detailed investigation beyond the 20 working day timeline. It is important to be realistic and clear with the customer about timeframes, and to advise them early if we think it will not be possible to meet the 20 day timeframe, and why. We should bear in mind that extended delays may have a detrimental effect on the customer.

62. Any extension must be approved by an appropriate manager. We will keep the customer and any member / s of staff complained about updated on the reason for the delay and give them a revised timescale for completion. We will contact the customer and any member / s of staff complained about at least once every 20 working days to update them on the progress of the investigation.

63. The reasons for an extension might include the following:

- Essential accounts or statements, crucial to establishing the circumstances of the case, are needed from staff, customers or others but the person is not available because of long-term sickness or leave.
- We cannot obtain further essential information within normal timescales.
- The customer has agreed to alternative complaint resolution approaches as a potential route for resolution.

These are only a few examples, and we will judge the matter in relation to each complaint. However, an extension would be the exception.

64. Appendix 1 provides further information on timelines.

Closing the complaint at the investigation stage

65. The response to the complaint should be in writing (or by the customer's preferred method of contact) and must be signed off by a manager or officer who is empowered to provide the final response on behalf of the Board.

66. We will tell the customer the outcome of the complaint (whether it is resolved, upheld, partially upheld or not upheld). The quality of the complaint response is very important and in terms of good practice should:

- Be clear and easy to understand, written in a way that is person-centred and non-confrontational.
- Avoid technical terms, but where these must be used, an explanation of the term should be provided.
- Address all the issues raised and demonstrate that each element has been fully and fairly investigated.
- Include an apology where things have gone wrong (this is different to an expression of empathy: see the SPSO's guidance on apology).
- Highlight any area of disagreement and explain why no further action can be taken.
- Indicate that a named member of staff is available to clarify any aspect of the letter.
- Indicate that if they are not satisfied with the outcome of the local process, they may seek a review by the SPSO (see Signposting to the SPSO).

67. Where a complaint has been resolved, the response does not need to provide a decision on all points of complaint, but should instead confirm the resolution agreed. See Resolving the complaint.

68. If the complaint is about the actions of a particular staff member / s, we will share with them any part of the complaint response which relates to them, (unless there are compelling reasons not to).

69. We will record the decision, and details of how it was communicated to the customer, on the complaints system.

70. The SPSO has guidance on responding to a complaint:

- Template decision letter.
- Apology guidance.

71. At the earliest opportunity after the closure of the complaint, the staff member handling the complaint should consider whether any learning has been identified. See Part 4: Learning from complaints.

Signposting to the SPSO

72. Once the investigation stage has been completed, the customer has the right to approach the SPSO if they remain dissatisfied. We must make clear to the customer:

- Their right to ask the SPSO to consider the complaint.
- The time limit for doing so.
- How to contact the SPSO.

73. The SPSO considers complaints from people who remain dissatisfied at the conclusion of our complaints procedure. The SPSO looks at issues such as service failure and maladministration (administrative fault), and the way we have handled the complaint. There are some subject areas that are outwith the SPSO's jurisdiction, but it is the SPSO's role to determine whether an individual complaint is one that they can consider (and to what extent). All investigation responses must signpost to the SPSO.

74. The SPSO recommends that we use the wording below to inform customers of their right to ask the SPSO to consider the complaint. This information should only be included on the Board's final response to the complaint.

Information about the SPSO

The Scottish Public Services Ombudsman (SPSO) is the final stage for complaints about public services in Scotland. This includes complaints about the Board. The SPSO is an independent organisation that investigates complaints. It is not an advocacy or support service (but there are other organisations who can help you with advocacy or support).

If you remain dissatisfied when you have had a final response from the Board, you can ask the SPSO to look at your complaint. You can ask the SPSO to look at your complaint if:

- You have gone all the way through the Board's Complaints Handling Procedure.
- It is less than 12 months after you became aware of the matter you want to complain about.
- The matter has not been (and is not being) considered in court.

The SPSO will ask you to complete a complaint form and provide a copy of this letter (our final response to your complaint). You can do this online at www.spsso.org.uk/complain or call them on Freephone 08003777330.

You may wish to get independent support or advocacy to help you progress your complaint. Organisations who may be able to assist you are:

- Citizens Advice Bureau.
- Scottish Independent Advocacy Alliance.

The SPSO's contact details are:

SPSO, Bridgeside House, 99 McDonald Road, Edinburgh, EH7 4NS.

If you would like to visit in person, you must make an appointment first.

Their freepost address is: FREEPOST SPSO.

Freephone: 08003777330.

Online contact: www.spsso.org.uk/contact-us.

Website: www.spsso.org.uk.

Post-closure contact

75. If a customer contacts us for clarification when they have received our final response, we may have further discussion with the customer to clarify our response and answer their questions. However, if the customer is dissatisfied with our response or does not accept our findings, we will explain that we have already given them our final response on the matter and signpost them to the SPSO.

Appendix 1 – Timelines

General

1. References to timelines throughout the CHP relate to working days. We do not count non-working days, for example weekends, public holidays and days of industrial action where our service has been interrupted.

Timelines at frontline response (stage 1)

2. We will aim to achieve frontline response within five working days. The date of receipt is day one, and the response should be provided (or the complaint escalated) on day five, at the latest.

3. If we have extended the timeline at the frontline response stage in line with the CHP, the response should be provided (or the complaint escalated) on day 10, at the latest.

Transferring cases from frontline response to investigation.

4. If the customer wants to escalate the complaint to the investigation stage, the case must be passed for investigation without delay. In practice this will mean on the same day that the customer is told this will happen.

Timelines at investigation (stage 2).

5. For complaints at the investigation stage, day one is:

- The day the case is transferred from the frontline stage to the investigation stage
- The day the customer asks for an investigation or expresses dissatisfaction after a decision at the frontline response stage; or
- The date we receive the complaint, if it is handled immediately at stage 2.

6. We must acknowledge the complaint within three working days of receipt at stage 2 i.e. by day three.

7. We should respond in full to the complaint by day 20, at the latest. We have 20 working days to investigate the complaint, regardless of any time taken to consider it at the frontline response stage.

8. Exceptionally, we may need longer than the 20 working day limit for a full response. If so, we will explain the reasons to the customer, and update them (and any staff involved) at least once every 20 working days.

Frequently asked questions.

What happens if an extension is granted at stage 1, but then the complaint is escalated?

9. The extension at stage 1 does not affect the timeframes at stage 2. The stage 2 timeframes apply from the day the complaint was escalated (we have 20 working days from this date, unless an extension is granted).

What happens if we cannot meet an extended timeframe?

10. If we cannot meet the extended timeframe at stage 1, the complaint should be escalated to stage 2. The maximum timeframe allowed for a stage 1 response is ten working days.

11. If we cannot meet the extended timeframe at stage 2, a further extension may be approved by an appropriate manager if there are clear reasons for this. This should only occur in exceptional circumstances (the original extension should allow sufficient time to realistically investigate and respond to the complaint). Where a further extension is agreed, we should explain the situation to the customer and give them a revised timeframe for completion. We must update the customer and any staff involved in the investigation at least once every 20 working days.

What happens when a customer asks for stage 2 consideration a long time after receiving a frontline response?

12. Unless exceptional circumstances exist, customers should bring a stage 2 complaint within six months of learning about the problem, or within two months of receiving the stage 1 response (whichever is latest). See Part 2: Time limits for making a complaint.

Part 4: Governance.

Roles and responsibilities

1. All staff will be aware of:

- The Complaints Handling Procedure (CHP).
- How to handle and record complaints at the frontline response stage.
- Who they can refer a complaint to, in case they are not able to handle the matter.
- The need to try and resolve complaints early and as close to the point of service delivery as possible.
- Their clear authority to attempt to resolve any complaints they may be called upon to deal with.

2. Training on this procedure will be part of the induction process for all new staff. Refresher training will be provided for current staff on a regular basis.

3. The Chief Officer and the Chief Finance Officer will ensure that:

- The Board's final position on a complaint investigation is signed off by an appropriate manager or officer in order to provide assurance that this is the definitive response of the Board and that the complainant's concerns have been taken seriously.
- They maintain overall responsibility and accountability for the management and governance of complaints handling (including complaints about contracted services).
- They have an active role in, and understanding of, the CHP (although not necessarily involved in the decision-making process of complaint handling).
- Mechanisms are in place to ensure a consistent approach to the way complaints handling information is managed, monitored, reviewed and reported at all levels in the Board.
- Complaints information is used to improve services, and this is evident from regular publications.

4. The Chief Officer: The Chief Officer provides leadership and direction in ways that guide and enable us to perform effectively across all services. This includes ensuring that there is an effective CHP, with a robust investigation process that demonstrates how we learn from the complaints we receive. The Chief Officer may take a personal interest in all or some complaints, or may delegate responsibility for the CHP to senior staff. Regular management reports assure the Chief Officer of the quality of complaints performance.

5. The Chief Officer is also responsible for ensuring that there are governance and accountability arrangements in place in relation to complaints about contractors. This includes:

- Ensuring performance monitoring for complaints is a feature of the service / management agreements between the Board and contractors.

- Setting clear objectives in relation to this complaints procedure and putting appropriate monitoring systems in place to provide the Board with an overview of how the contractor is meeting its objectives.

6. Chief Finance Officer: On the Chief Officer's behalf, the Chief Finance Officer may be responsible for:

- Managing complaints and the way we learn from them.
- Overseeing the implementation of actions required as a result of a complaint.
- Investigating complaints.
- Deputising for the chief executive on occasion.

7. They may also be responsible for preparing and signing off decisions for customers, so they should be satisfied that the investigation is complete and their response addresses all aspects of the complaint.

8. The Chief Finance Officer is the Board's Complaints investigator: The complaints investigator is responsible and accountable for the management of the investigation. They may work in a service delivery team or as part of a centralised customer service team, and will be involved in the investigation and in coordinating all aspects of the response to the customer. This may include preparing a comprehensive written report, including details of any procedural changes in service delivery and identifying wider opportunities for learning across the organisation.

9. The Chief Officer: officer is responsible for ensuring all new staff receive training on the CHP as part of the induction process, and that refresher training is provided for current staff on a regular basis.

10. The Chief Officer is the organisation's SPSO liaison officer: Our SPSO liaison officer's role may include providing complaints information in an orderly, structured way within requested timescales, providing comments on factual accuracy on our behalf in response to SPSO reports, and confirming and verifying that recommendations have been implemented.

Recording, reporting, learning from and publicising complaints

11. Complaints provide valuable customer feedback. One of the aims of the CHP is to identify opportunities to improve services across the Board. By recording and analysing complaints data, we can identify and address the causes of complaints and, where appropriate, identify training opportunities and introduce service improvements.

12. We also have arrangements in place to ensure complaints about contractors are recorded, reported on and publicised in line with this CHP.

Recording complaints

13. It is important to record suitable data to enable us to fully investigate and respond to the complaint, as well as using our complaint information to track themes and trends. As a minimum, we should record:

- The customer's name and contact details.
- The date the complaint was received.
- The nature of the complaint.
- The service the complaint refers to.
- Staff member responsible for handling the complaint.
- Action taken and outcome at frontline response stage.
- Date the complaint was closed at the frontline response stage.
- Date the investigation stage was initiated (if applicable).
- Action taken and outcome at investigation stage (if applicable).
- Date the complaint was closed at the investigation stage (if applicable).
- The underlying cause of the complaint and any remedial action taken.

14. If the customer does not want to provide any of this information, we will reassure them that it will be managed appropriately, and record what we can.

15. Individual complaint files will be stored in line with our document retention policy.

Learning from complaints

16. We must have clear systems in place to act on issues identified in complaints. As a minimum, we must:

- Seek to identify the root cause of complaints.
- Take action to reduce the risk of recurrence.
- Systematically review complaints performance reports to improve service delivery.

17. Learning may be identified from individual complaints (regardless of whether the complaint is upheld or not) and from analysis of complaints data.

18. Where we have identified the need for service improvement in response to an individual complaint, we will take appropriate action.

19. SPSO has guidance on Learning from complaints.

20. Senior management will review the information reported on complaints regularly to ensure that any trends or wider issues which may not be obvious from individual complaints are quickly identified and addressed. Where we identify the need for service improvement, we will take appropriate action (as set out above). Where appropriate, performance in the service area should be monitored to ensure that the issue has been resolved.

Reporting of complaints

21. We have a process for the internal reporting of complaints information, including analysis of complaints trends. Regularly reporting the analysis of complaints information helps to inform management of where services need to improve.

22. We will report at least quarterly to senior management on:

- Performance statistics, in line with the complaints performance indicators published by SPSO.
- Analysis of the trends and outcomes of complaints (this should include highlighting where there are areas where few or no complaints are received, which may indicate either good practice or that there are barriers to complaining in that area).

Publicising complaints information

23. We publish on a quarterly basis information on complaints outcomes and actions taken to improve services, provided any complaints have been received that quarter.

24. This demonstrates the improvements resulting from complaints and shows that complaints can help to improve our services. It also helps ensure transparency in our complaints handling service and will help to show our customers that we value their complaints.

25. We will publish an annual complaints performance report on our website in line with SPSO requirements, and provide this to the SPSO on request. This summarises and builds on the quarterly reports we have produced about our services. It includes:

- Performance statistics, in line with the complaints performance indicators published by the SPSO.
- Complaint trends and the actions that have been or will be taken to improve services as a result.

26. These reports must be easily accessible to members of the public and available in alternative formats as requested.

The Orkney Integration Joint Board (the Board) is committed to providing high-quality customer services.

We value complaints and use information from them to help us improve our services.

1. If something goes wrong or you are dissatisfied with our services, please tell us. This leaflet describes our complaints procedure and how to make a complaint. It also tells you about how we will handle your complaint and what you can expect from us.

What is a complaint?

2. We regard a complaint as any expression of dissatisfaction about our action or lack of action, or about the standard of service provided by us or on our behalf.

What can I complain about?

3. You can complain about things like:

- Failure or refusal to provide a service.
- Inadequate quality or standard of service, or an unreasonable delay in providing a service.
- Dissatisfaction with one of our policies or its impact on the individual.
- Failure to properly apply law, procedure or guidance when delivering services.
- Failure to follow the appropriate administrative process.
- Conduct, treatment by or attitude of a member of staff or contractor (except where there are arrangements in place for the contractor to handle the complaint themselves).
- Disagreement with a decision, (except where there is a statutory procedure for challenging that decision, or an established appeals process followed throughout the sector).

4. Your complaint may involve more than one [organisation] service or be about someone working on our behalf.

What can't I complain about?

5. There are some things we can't deal with through our complaints handling procedure. These include:

- A routine first-time request for a service.
- A request for compensation only.
- Issues that are in court or have already been heard by a court or a tribunal (if you decide to take legal action, you should let us know as the complaint cannot then be considered under this process).
- Disagreement with a decision where there is a statutory procedure for challenging that decision (such as for freedom of information and subject access requests), or an established appeals process followed throughout the sector.
- A request for information under the Data Protection or Freedom of Information (Scotland) Acts.

- A grievance by a staff member or a grievance relating to employment or staff recruitment.
- A concern raised internally by a member of staff (which was not about a service they received, such as a whistleblowing concern).
- A concern about a child or an adult's safety.
- An attempt to reopen a previously concluded complaint or to have a complaint reconsidered where we have already given our final decision.
- Abuse or unsubstantiated allegations about our organisation or staff where such actions would be covered by our Unacceptable Actions and Challenging Behaviour by Service Users and Complainants.
- A concern about the actions or service of a different organisation, where we have no involvement in the issue (except where the other organisation is delivering services on our behalf).

6. If other procedures or rights of appeal can help you resolve your concerns, we will give information and advice to help you.

Who can complain?

7. Anyone who receives, requests or is directly affected by our services can make a complaint to us. This includes the representative of someone who is dissatisfied with our service (for example, a relative, friend, advocate or adviser). If you are making a complaint on someone else's behalf, you will normally need their written consent. Please also read the section on Getting help to make your complaint below.

How do I complain?

8. You can complain in person at any of our office, by phone, in writing, or by email.

9. It is easier for us to address complaints if you make them quickly and directly to the service concerned. Please talk to a member of our staff at the service you are complaining about, so then they can try to resolve the issue.

10. When complaining, please tell us:

- Your full name and contact details.
- As much as you can about the complaint.
- What has gone wrong.
- What outcome you are seeking.

Our contact details:

Address: Orkney Health and Care, Council Offices, School Place, Kirkwall, Orkney, KW15 1NY.

Telephone: 01856873535.

Email: ohacfeedback@orkney.gov.uk.

How long do I have to make a complaint?

11. Normally, you must make your complaint within six months of:

- The event you want to complain about.
- Finding out that you have a reason to complain.

12. In exceptional circumstances, we may be able to accept a complaint after the time limit. If you feel that the time limit should not apply to your complaint, please tell us why.

What happens when I have complained?

13. We will always tell you who is dealing with your complaint. Our complaints procedure has two stages.

Stage 1: Frontline response

14. We aim to respond to complaints quickly (where possible, when you first tell us about the issue). This could mean an on-the-spot apology and explanation if something has clearly gone wrong, or immediate action to resolve the problem.

15. We will give you our decision at stage 1 in five working days or less, unless there are exceptional circumstances.

16. If you are not satisfied with the response we give at this stage, we will tell you what you can do next. If you choose to, you can take your complaint to stage 2. You must normally ask us to consider your complaint at stage 2 either:

- Within six months of the event you want to complain about or finding out that you have a reason to complain; or
- Within two months of receiving your stage 1 response (if this is later).

17. In exceptional circumstances, we may be able to accept a stage 2 complaint after the time limit. If you feel that the time limit should not apply to your complaint, please tell us why.

Stage 2: Investigation

18. Stage 2 deals with two types of complaint: where the customer remains dissatisfied after stage 1 and those that clearly require investigation, and so are handled directly at this stage. If you do not wish your complaint to be handled at stage 1, you can ask us to handle it at stage 2 instead.

19. When using stage 2:

- We will acknowledge receipt of your complaint within three working days.
- We will confirm our understanding of the complaint we will investigate and what outcome you are looking for.
- We will try to resolve your complaint where we can (in some cases we may suggest using an alternative complaint resolution approach, such as mediation).

- Where we cannot resolve your complaint, we will give you a full response as soon as possible, normally within 20 working days.

20. If our investigation will take longer than 20 working days, we will tell you. We will tell you our revised time limits and keep you updated on progress.

What if I'm still dissatisfied?

21. After we have given you our final decision, if you are still dissatisfied with our decision or the way we dealt with your complaint, you can ask the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman (SPSO) to look at it.

The SPSO are an independent organisation that investigates complaints. They are not an advocacy or support service (but there are other organisations who can help you with advocacy or support).

You can ask the SPSO to look at your complaint if:

- You have gone all the way through the [organisation]'s complaints handling procedure.
- It is less than 12 months after you became aware of the matter you want to complain about.
- The matter has not been (and is not being) considered in court.

The SPSO will ask you to complete a complaint form and provide a copy of our final response to your complaint. You can do this online at www.spsso.org.uk/complain/form or call them on Freephone 08003777330.

You may wish to get independent support or advocacy to help you progress your complaint. See the section on Getting help to make your complaint below.

The SPSO's contact details are:

SPSO, Bridgeside House, 99 McDonald Road, Edinburgh, EH7 4NS.

If you would like to visit in person, you must make an appointment first.

Their freepost address is: FREEPOST SPSO.

Getting help to make your complaint

22. We understand that you may be unable or reluctant to make a complaint yourself. We accept complaints from the representative of a person who is dissatisfied with our service. We can take complaints from a friend, relative, or an advocate, if you have given them your consent to complain for you.

23. You can find out about advocates in your area by contacting the Scottish Independent Advocacy Alliance:

Scottish Independent Advocacy Alliance.

Telephone: 01315109410.

Website: www.siaa.org.uk.

24. You can find out about advisers in your area through Citizens Advice Scotland:

Citizens Advice Scotland.

Website: www.cas.org.uk.

You can also check your phone book for your local citizens advice bureau.

25. We are committed to making our service easy to use for all members of the community. In line with our statutory equalities duties, we will always ensure that reasonable adjustments are made to help you access and use our services. If you have trouble putting your complaint in writing, or want this information in another language or format, such as large font, or Braille, please tell us in person or contact us using the details below.
